

Don't Subcontract with the Contractor

- Postal Service employees are prohibited from providing consultation, advice, or any subcontracting service to any person who has a contract with the Postal Service or might compete for a contract.
- This includes consulting about postal operations, programs, or procedures.

Avoiding conflicting outside employment preserves the Postal Service's reputation as being fair and honest.

And that's smart business.

Contact the Ethics Office (ethics.help@usps.gov) for guidance on supplemental employment.