

Don't hire Uncle Joe to cut the lawn at your Post Office.

- You can't hire your relative or the relative of a postal employee for cleaning, lawn care, snow removal or maintenance contracts.
- The Postal Service doesn't enter in to contracts with postal employees or their family members. Refer to the Postal Service's Supplying Principles and Practices and the Administrative Support Manual.

When you don't award a local buy contract to your family member, you maintain the integrity and reputation of the Postal Service as a fair and honest organization.

And that's smart business.
