

Escort Your Visitors

- Notify Postal Service security (where there's security) or local management when you're expecting a visitor. The visitor will be provided a badge to wear while in the building (when possible). You'll be called to escort your visitor to his or her destination.
- Don't provide your badge to a visitor to gain entry to the building. Don't let your visitor wander the facility.

Keeping our people and workplaces secure is a USPS priority.

And that's smart business.
