

Seek Opportunities Today to Advance Your Career Tomorrow

The Postal Service needs a deep bench of candidates ready and able to fill critical roles as individuals in leadership positions retire. You can be a part of that bench.

- Seek out employee networking and career nights.
- Ask about detail and special project opportunities with your manager.
- Pursue training and educational opportunities to enhance your skills and abilities.
- Ask those in positions you seek how they achieved their success and learn from them.

Shape the future of the Postal Service by working toward career advancement opportunities today.

And that's smart business!
