

Fundraising at Work

- The Combined Federal Campaign (CFC) is the only authorized solicitation of Postal Service employees on behalf of charitable organizations in the workplace.
- All other types of fundraising for charities at work are prohibited. For example, you cannot sell your daughter's cookies at work or ask your colleagues to purchase items from you to benefit your place of worship.
- Fundraising at work can make coworkers feel coerced to contribute, affect morale, and distract us from the work at hand.

Limiting fundraising to the CFC is the law – and it's SMART BUSINESS.
