

Hand Exercises

Grasp the importance of this.

As part of your daily routine, don't forget your digits. To stretch your hand, make a fist, then extend and spread your fingers. Hold each position for several seconds then allow your hand and fingers to relax. These exercises can help prevent muscular skeletal injuries.

And that's smart safety.

For additional information or guidance, contact your safety office.