

Headlight Use

We're going to illuminate you on the use of headlights.

They're not just for driving at night. Headlights are required to be turned on from sunset to sunrise, when driving in smoke or fog, if visibility is less than a thousand feet, or when windshield wipers are in continuous use because it's raining, sleeting or snowing.

Turning on your headlights can play an important role in keeping you — and those around you — safe on the road.

And that's smart safety!

For additional information or guidance, contact your safety office.